Leading Questions for The Division of Labor in Society

1. Where, other than the economy, do we see a division of labor?
2. What is "collective conscience?"
3. Durkheim gives us a "pre-cap" of his "crime is normal" concept on 101. Review the logic of we don't disapprove because it's a crime, it's a crime because we disapprove.
4. What is solidarity?
5. What are the characteristics of the first kind of solidarity?
6. Why does Durkheim call this "mechanical" solidarity?
7. How does the second kind of solidarity work?
8. Does the "proposition" Durkheim suggests under "The Causes" offer an hypothesis counter to Adam Smith's view of the world? How so?
9. How is the division of labor in society NOT analogous to specialization within an organic body?
10. How does Durkheim summarize his argument in the conclusion?
